Dedicate GC college center

By BILL WINTER

The local college will launch its first full year at 1:30 p.m. Thursday with ceremonies in which the flag of Granite City Center will be raised.

Already, enrollment is approaching 1,500 and the fall semester's credit hours have topped 10,000.

The public is being urged to attend the opening program in front of the main entrance to the former Granite City High School North, 4650 Maryville Road. Refreshments and a tour of the revamped facilities will follow brief remarks by community and college leaders.

The new two-year college is being opened by the multi-county Community College District 522, which operates Belleville Area College. North was leased by the college district after being closed as a high school.

GCC is intended to expand BAC services in the northern part of the district. The main campus in Belleville has become overcrowded, and a third facility is likely to be established in the southern portion of the district in the mid-1990s.

Summer classes have been in operation at the local center, which changed hands June 1. The 1983 fall semester, starting Aug. 22, will mark the first local offering of a full array of university transfer and career education courses.

Registration is continuing at 931-0660, 451-0120 or 451-0121; hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, through Aug. 20.

Registration can be arranged by calling or visiting GCC.

Student orientation sessions will start tomorrow. Textbooks will be sold from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 15 to 19.

Speakers here Thursday will include Mrs. Patricia Bartoskas, chairman of the BAC Board of Trustees, plus Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer.

Also giving talks will be Dr. Bruce R. Wissors, BAC president, and Dr. Frank Gornick, GCC provost. Music will be provided by the Metro East Brass, led by the GCC music faculty.

All citizens are welcome to the dedication ceremonies and the tour, a spokesman emphasized.

"The provision of three telephone lines and the addition of Saturday registration hours are examples of how we hope to make it convenient for residents of Granite City and surrounding communities to attend college," the spokesman added.

Located on Illinois Route 203 a short distance from Interstate 70, the college center is expected to attract not only Quad-Cityans but many persons residing in the Collinsville, Troy and Highland areas.

Tuition is $21 per semester hour for District 522 residents and for Illinoisans outside the district with charge-back authorization. Other Illinoisans will pay $39 and out-of-state and foreign students will pay $63 per credit hour.

Students enrolling in college credit courses for the first time pay a non-refundable admission fee of $10.

The plant will, uncoil, clean and slit steel to specifications.

Firm seeks GC aid

A Nevada corporation has been turned down in its plan to make Granite City a financially-labile partner in a $10 to $12 million precious and semi-precious metals reclamation plant.

City officials met Friday with Elicom here in Illinois Power's Northgate Industrial Park along Route 3.

14-year-old wins Miss Hemisphere title

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

Perhaps the most talented youngster among many gifted children in the Quad-City area is Ginger Belh Booker of Madison, who not only has attained national and international recognition, but now has achieved hemispheric prominence.

A classical pianist and an inspired singer, Ginger, 14, is the new Miss Hemisphere Teen Talent queen, a title she won at the Miss Hemisphere International Pageant in Philadelphia, Pa.

In winning the title over 46 international contestants in her age division—11 through 15 years—Ginger received a new 1984 automobile, a 17-jewel diamond wristwatch and a full tuition-paid scholarship to the Philadelphia Academy of Theatrical Arts.

Additionally, she was presented a M. Belh Booker award necklace and banner and a six-foot tall marble trophy.

Competition in the talent, beauty and modeling pageant attracted contestants from Canada, India, Guam, Puerto Rico, Pakistan and several South Pacific and Caribbean islands.

The 20th annual pageant, which concluded last week, was televised from the Philadelphia Centre Hotel, where the many of the contestants and their families stayed, including the local girl.

Ginger was accompanied to Philadelphia by her mother, Mrs. Bobbie Booker, 1655 Market St., Madison, who is a teacher's aide at Harris School.

Their trip to Philadelphia was sponsored by the Madison Rotary Club, which has acted as Ginger's official sponsor on previous occasions.

Ginger appeared twice in the pageant's production sequences, singing two songs and captivating the audience and judges, it was learned.

Her appearances were as one of 10 semi-finalists and again upon being selected among the top five finalists.

The music for her vocal numbers was taped in advance by her teacher at the Conservatory of Music in St. Louis, where Ginger studies classical piano.

Last year, the young Madison girl, won the prestigious Fontbonne College Instrumental Music Award for her performance in a regional contest.

She has attended St. Mary-St. Mark Parochial School in Madison since the third grade and was a pupil at Harris School prior to that time.

Later this month, Ginger will begin her freshman year at Marquette High School in Alton.

Ginger, who celebrated her 14th birthday in May, represented Illinois in the seven-day pageant.

Despite her youth, she is widely known in the Quad-City area, having performed before various organizations.

She also appeared on South-Western Cable TV's "Coffee Break" with Greg McGee, who has expressed admiration for the youngster's poise and talent.

Ginger is a member of the

GINGER BOOKER

Harvest Church of Christ in East St. Louis, and her mother is a teacher's aide at Harris School in Madison.

Speaking with Mrs. Booker about Ginger's unusual first name, the mother explained, "I knew when I saw her that she would be full of life, vibrant and snappy. That's what I told the nurses at the hospital."

Mrs. Booker also is the mother of two older sons, both of whom are married.

Everyone hearing Ginger sing or perform as a pianist expresses a belief that the quietly spoken Madison girl's future is as bright as the sparkle in her eyes and her mother's quiet, but obvious pride.

Chapter I supervisor to be named

A supervisory position, assistant director of the Chapter I federal instructional program, was re-established by the Granite City Board of Education last week.

The post, involving ten months of work each year, is to be filled at the Aug. 16 board meeting.

Requirements are an administrative certificate and experience with federal and state educational programs. English and mathematics are taught in economically limited neighborhoods.

The director is Warren Collins, administrative assistant for elementary schools. He will devote half of his time to the Chapter I duties.

In recommending that the assistant director job be re-established, Supt. B. J. Davis said, "With the filing of a Chapter I proposal, the state has suggested we consider reinstating the supervisory position in this area. It will be fully reimbursed through Chapter I and will have no financial implication on local revenues."

We also will be able to continue to seek partial reimbursement for Collins' salary."

Collins said, "In 1971, a second administrative position in the Chapter I (formerly Title I) program was created. Mrs. Ruth Lahr was hired; prior to 1971, Dale Lahr was the director from 1971 until her retirement this summer. She was directly responsible to Rea; all of the applications indicated him as the principal administrator and showed one of his time was directed to these duties."

"No portions of his salary or fringe benefits were charged against this program. It remains possible that a percentage of the salary and benefits of the principal administrator can be paid through federal-state reimbursement, based on documentation of the time effort."

"Several years ago, this was not as important as it has currently become. My memory is that in 1980-81 there was discussion to have part of Rea's salary paid by Chapter I.

"This was the same year in which closing of the program occurred. The original plan to pay part of his salary was not implemented because of the reduction in the program."

A June 24, 1983, letter from Robert Hardy expressed the state's concern about reduced administrative functions at a time when the program has been expanded and has become more complex.

"The State Education Office contends that, to maintain quality, administrative control should not be reduced. Hardy also points out there are sufficient Chapter I funds to provide needed administrative resources."

"In June 30 and July 20 conversations, he assured me that 1½ administrative salaries could be paid through Chapter I and would not be excessive for this size program."

Collins will supervise activities of Chapter I personnel at designated centers. He will evaluate the existing project and review alternate methods of achieving future objectives.

Collins also will prepare project applications and

2 highway bids below estimates

Low construction bids on two Quad-City road projects are below the advance cost estimates, an Illinois Department of Transportation spokesman said last week.

Reese Construction Co., Cahokia, bid $73,306 (compared to an $80,500 estimate) to resurface 48-mile of Klein Street between Broadway and Bissell Street in Venice.

A low bid of $552,388 was submitted by MacLair on 24 miles of resurfacing on Illinois Route 111 between Pontoon Beach, and Chain of Rocks Road, Mitchell. The advance figure was $548,000.

MacLair bid $120,392, compared to a $115,400 estimate, on 34-mile of resurfacing on Chain of Rocks Road near Cedar Park.

According to Granite City detectives, Sanford waived extradition proceedings. He appeared here before a judge and was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

The same man also was being sought by U.S. marshals on a federal warrant issued by the fugitive division for violation of parole, it was learned.

Steven Brown, 20, and Anthony Kenny Jackson, 25, both of St. Louis, were arrested shortly after the alleged burglary. Brown was taken into custody while seated in an auto in an alley near the Grand Cafe. He was later released when his bond was reduced to $22,000 and he posted $2,200 cash bail.

Jackson was caught by Madison and Venice officers, near the viaduct at Broadway and McKinley, Venice. His bond was set at $25,000 and he was sent on July 13 to the county jail.

Insurance savings for GC schools

A change in the administrative company for Granite City schools' district-financed employee insurance produced a $14,925 saving in the first six months of 1983.

The health insurance administrative service fee fell from $35,570 to $17,979, the stop-loss premium rose from $1,740 to $7,854 and life insurance premiums declined from $39,864 to $38,447.

This lowered the overall cost from $77,265 to $64,280, based on actual fees and premiums paid by Geneco, Inc., from Jan. 1 to June 30 and a projection of the costs if the district had accepted rates proposed by Great-West, the previous administrative firm.

The comparison was provided at last week's Board of Education meeting by Karen Szedlar, District Nine coordinator of insurance services.

During another part of the meeting, the board amended its health benefit plan to conform to a new federal law.

Retrospective to Jan. 1, 1983, Medicare will be considered the secondary payer for all active employees, or their dependents, aged 65-69 covered under the plan, in accordance with the 1982 amendment to the 1967 Age Discrimination in Employment Act. The amendment was part of TEFRA (the Tax Equity and Financial Responsibility Act).

District Nine's plan is now the primary payer for active employees or their dependents aged 65-69 covered by the plan.

Benefits will be paid on the same basis as those for employees or dependents aged 65 or under) not covered by Medicare—unless they designate Medicare as the primary coverage.

As the primary payer for active employees or their dependents aged 65-69 covered under the plan, the schools will provide benefits on the same basis as those for employees or dependents less than 65 not covered by Medicare.

For active employees 70 or older, and their dependents, charges not considered by Medicare will be considered for inclusion in the health benefit plan.

"Geneco is unable at this time to predict what effect compliance with the new regulations will have on our claims experience, but the company seems to feel the effect will be minimal," Mrs. Szedlar said.

Drivers, mechanics strike SCA

Drivers and mechanics of the Milan East Division of SCA Services, Inc., located on Highway 162 just west of Highway 111, failed to report for work this morning, the seventh day of their work stoppage.

The sixteen members of Teamsters Local 525, whose contract with the company expired at midnight, July 1, refused SCA's new contract offer and began their strike at midnight Monday, Aug. 1. The company has offered a 20-cent raise the first year of the three-year agreement, with the two remaining years' raises to be negotiated at a later date. The workers have asked for a 50-cent raise each of the three years.

The workers also allege that nine of the employees will be laid off.

Len Stogsdill, a mechanic for Milan East, said that the workers would like to see two men be assigned to each trash-hauling truck to make the operation more efficient and to save the jobs of the nine to be laid off.

Dave Houser, district manager of Milan East, said today that some layoffs are possible, but that losing the contract with Granite City is the cause.

Houser said that management people are now operating the trucks and covering the routes. He said that about 10 non-union workers have also been hired by the company to augment the management personnel. They began picking up trash on Tuesday, Aug. 2.

All routes have been picked up and we're up to date as of this morning," Houser said today.

Stogsdill said the company could suspend operations here and operate out of the St. Louis office. He said that doing so would save the company a considerable amount of money because his union workers are now paid $8.30 per hour compared to $5.25 per hour being paid to Teamsters Local 610 members in St. Louis.

Milan East still has contract hauling with businesses and apartment complexes in Granite City and in Pontoon Beach. The company also provides trash hauling services in Glen Carbon, Edwardsville, Collinsville and the Cottonwood area.

The company also provides residential pickups in the rural areas surrounding the Quad-Cities.

When asked how long the management and non-union workers could maintain trash pickup services, Houser said, "We can last forever."

Park district position open

The Granite City Park District has an aide position open in its preschool program. Those applying should have a background in early childhood education to help with the instruction of 4 year olds.

Applicants must be at least 21 years old and must be residents of the park district. A degree in early childhood education is preferred, but at least three years of experience in the field is adequate.

Pay for the position has not yet been established by the board of park commissioners. The school meets Mondays through Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., which includes a lunch period.

Anyone interested should contact David Nolan, director of parks and recreation, at the park office, Benton and Oregon streets, or by calling 677-3059.

Stab, rob man on McCambridge

Jack L. Butler, 32, of Washington Park, was stabbed in the left side of his chest and back by a man who robbed him of $300 while Butler was walking in the 500 block of McCambridge Avenue, Madison, at 5:15 a.m. Sunday.

Butler told police that he had been drinking at a Granite City tavern when a man, known to him only by a first name, came up to him there and said he knew where they could get another drink when the tavern closed.

The two men walked to Madison and as they reached the 500 block of McCambridge, the man pulled a knife and stabbed him in the back and chest, Butler told police. He also suffered a cut to his left wrist, reports said.

After being stabbed, Butler got away from his assailant and ran toward the Kerr-McGee Service Station, 425 McCambridge Ave., where a man was rolling newspapers.

When the pursuing robber saw the other man inside the building, he fled east across McCambridge Avenue, Butler said.

The injured man was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. SEMC personnel wanted Butler to be admitted for further treatment, but Madison police were advised at 7:05 a.m. Sunday that he had left the hospital against medical advice.

CAUGHT NEAR TRUCK

A passerby caught a 15-year-old boy at 11 p.m. Thursday after two fishing rods and reels were taken from the pickup truck of Douglas Stinson, 299 Saratoga Ave., parked at that address. Police released the boy to his parents to return later for questioning.

Rites for father of GC resident

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 3, at Kessler Colonial Chapel, Fairview Heights, for Harry W. Stewart, Sr., 67, of Washington Park, father of Harry W. Stewart Jr. of Granite City.

He died Monday, Aug. 1, 1983, at this home.

Mr. Stewart retired in 1973 from the Burlington Northern Truck Lines after 15 years of service and also was a retired member of Teamsters United Local 600 of St. Louis.

He was a member of VFW Post 6371 of Washington Park and was a World War II veteran.

Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Verneda Stewart; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Karen) Do- myan, Collinsville, Mrs. Gary (Sharon) Briggs, Belleville, and Mrs. Timothy (Shelly) Kearns of St. Louis; and four grandchildren.

Burial was in Mount Carmel Cemetery, Belleville.

Use phone book—long wait for directory help

Officials of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., which provides service to customers in the Quad-Cities, have pledged to maintain services during the strike by communication workers against American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the parent company.

These services, however, are expected to move at much slower pace, including directory assistance and requests for long-distance operator assistance.

Telephone repair and installation services also are expected to be delayed, some as many as by three days, due to the nationwide strike by 675,000 AT&T employees.

Pickets were outside Illinois Bell's switching facility at 21st Street and Edison Avenue this morning.

John Lewis receives annual award

By PAT HAYLUTZ for the Press-Record

The annual Madison School Board Recognition award was presented Thursday evening to John Lewis, a 1963 graduate of Madison High School for his outstanding performance as a track athlete during his high school career.

Before the award was given to Lewis, at the Madison School Board meeting, Madison High School Principal Daniel Kostenccki, who had nominated Lewis for the award, praised Lewis' athletic feats. "He is a young man who has done very well for us," Kostenccki related. "He was outstanding in the jumping events, specializing in the long jump, where he broke the high school record during his junior year by jumping 6 feet, 6 inches."

Lewis, who stands about 5 feet 10 inches tall, broke his own record in his senior year by jumping 6 feet, 9 inches, Kostenccki explained. His performance at the midwest meet produced his best jump of 6 feet, 11 inches, and Kostenccki commented on Lewis' future. "I think he has the potential to go even farther," he said.

Kostenccki concluded his speech by commenting on the personal traits he found worthy of recognition. "He made mistakes like anyone else," Kostenccki said. "When he made mistakes, he was man enough to admit them and go on from there."

Board President Sam Dymas presented a certificate to Lewis, saying, "We're proud of you. You represented us well and we hope you make us proud in college."

The 17-year-old Lewis plans to major in art at Parkland University in Champaign, Ill., where he also plans to be a member of their track team.

In other business, Kostenccki reported on the progress of the in-house suspension program for the high school, saying that the program will be in operation at the beginning of the school year.

In the new program, students who are suspended from school will be confined to one room in the school, where they will be given current assignments by their teachers. For the duration of their suspensions, the students will complete their homework, eat their lunches, and remain in an area of the school which is separate from other non-suspended students.

According to Kostenccki, the program is experimental and the success of the first year will determine the continuation probability of the program. "Everybody's eyes will be on us to see how this works," he said. "We've worked hard (planning), and this will be the year for the in-house suspension program," he added.

Kostenccki then thanked the board members for supporting the program, saying, "We never could have gotten this off the ground without your support. We all appreciate your help."

Board members also approved a request from the Cahokia Mound Council Boy Scouts of America, which allows them to hold a "School Night for Scouting" from 7 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 15 at Blair, Louis Baer, and Harp Schools.

Invitation to attend will go out to boys of Tiger Cubs age (7 or in the second grade), Cub Scout age (8 through 10 or in third through fifth grades), and Boy Scout age (11 through 13 or in the sixth through ninth grades).

After opening two bids from photography studios vying for the contract to take class pictures, board members accepted the lower bid from Javon Photography Studio of Granite City. This was the first year the board requested bids for the work, and Hollywood-Andrews of Granite City, which previously held the contract, did not return the lower bid.

Drug agency needs state funds

We disagree with Governor Thompson's veto of $1,340,000 earmarked by legislators for metropolitan enforcement groups, including MEGSI, the enforcement group of Southwestern Illinois.

Quick action needs to be taken to restore some state funding and also to get the state out of the drug dealers. The latter concept makes a lot of sense, but the governor may be trying to rely on it too soon.

A drug prevention fund, DPF, was created by the Illinois Narcotics Profit Forfeiture Act approved last year. The state is empowered to seize certain assets of convicted drug dealers.

In his cost-cutting zeal, the governor has taken the position that MEGSI and the other agencies should continue "only at the level generated by the seized assets of dealers deposited in DPF." But the seizure process under his direction may be too slow and unproductive if there is to be only a brief transition period.

Proponents of the forfeiture law envisioned it raising more than $1 million; but Rick Kozak, assistant director, Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation, says it has only $7,000 at this point.

Some prosecutors were unaware the fund existed, according to Kozak. He sees it getting off the launching pad relatively soon.

Gov. Thompson ought to take this into account, and also realize a major built-in drawback: Prosecutors were reluctant to go after drug dealers' assets because they knew the first $1½ million would go to the state's general revenue fund. That is the amount borrowed from the fund to cover initial costs of the new asset seizure program; legislation forgiving that debt has passed both houses—but at this stage still lacks the governor's signature.

The work of the agencies seeking to curb drug abuse—to protect the local child and adult population—is too important to be accorded such low priority.

Senators and representatives need to give the issue their attention when they return to Springfield this fall, and the governor ought to have a change of heart.

Area's trolley cars may return

Formation of a new group called Citizens for Modern Transit (CMT) is a step forward for the St. Louis metropolitan area, which abandoned trolleys a generation ago and has not yet figured out how to create a new light-rail system utilizing overhead electric lines.

A spur connecting with the Quad-City area does not seem likely in the early stages of such a system. But the local area ultimately could be considered along with links to Belleville, Kirkwood and St. Charles.

What seems feasible at present is a network extending from the Barnes Hospital area on Kingshighway in St. Louis to Clayton-University City, to the vicinity of Lambert Airport and the McDonnell-Douglas Co., to downtown St. Louis, and to East St. Louis.

Due to the high crime level in East St. Louis, it does not appear to be the ideal focal point for Illinois light-rail connections, but backers are confident that an entirely safe parking complex can be established. Motorists would then ride the train to work or to crowded locations like Busch Stadium, avoiding congested driving and parking worries.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council currently is analyzing alternate ways of improving transit along the bi-state region's central corridor. One approach offering great potential would be to combine rail transit with enhanced bus service.

No final decisions will be made until the Gateway study has been completed. The citizen group can help by increasing public awareness and understanding of the choices that need to be made. Misunderstanding already has developed in Clayton.

Thomas W. Purcell, CMT chairman, says, "In other areas of the country, light rail is an integral part of public transportation, providing pollution-free accessibility and convenience. The systems have contributed to improved conditions for economic development and have increased residential as well as commercial property values."

"The light rail alternatives under consideration here have the feature of linking together key areas of this region, including employment centers, educational institutions and medical centers. Our region is in a better position now than at almost any time in its history to tie these points together in cooperation with the bus transit system."

Virtually all of the $200 million construction cost of a light rail transportation system would be derived from new federal gasoline tax revenue.

Does a concern about crime have an effect on how Quad-Cityans go about their daily activities? Press-Record readers were asked for their response.

Evie Owens, Pontoon Beach

"Yes, I usually feel safe, but it just scares me to go out at night."

Ruth Miller, Granite City

"Yes, it does, in a way. I live in West Granite and you have to be careful when you walk your dog. You don't go out by yourself at 12 o'clock at night for fear of who's walking the streets."

Faye Burton, Granite City

"Sure, I always have my car locked when I'm driving, even during the day. And I always have my doors locked at home."

Al Mance, Granite City

"Sure does. I make sure everything is secured. That's one thing I always make sure of. And you have to be careful when you travel. I was in New York and you have to watch it there."

Churches here help the best they are able

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the one written to you about how good Larry Rice is and how poorly our churches respond to the poor in Granite City.

First, our church only air conditions the main nave on Sunday. The cost of keeping it cool all the time is prohibitive. Can you imagine anyone sitting in church oc-cupping a pew just to keep cool?

Larry Rice receives thousands and thousands of dollars cash in addition to many free fans and air conditioners from business people. In our city, we do not have the broad base from which to draw for donations. Also, he has excellent public relations — TV and news reporters follow him about on his good deeds.

In my church during the year we gave food and clothing to people in our own neighborhoods. I personally know of where shoes were bought and given to school children.

At present, our church is in the red, but we don't go asking for money from the community at large. We expect to pay our own expenses ourselves and still help our neighbors. We spread Christ in Granite City.

Also, a TV camera doesn't follow our pastor about, or would he want it. He represents me doing God's work without publicity or praise. Verily, he has his reward for the Father who sees and in secret rewards.

Reader just not fond of utility companies

To the Editor:

Let's talk about sewer billing problems. Lady, you had your American Express money order receipt. That's all you need. You should call the city attorney about this and if he couldn't make a call for you, then he should be thrown out of office.

Have you or anyone else had trouble with the utility bills? They will turn your utilities off, just by a telephone call. How do they know who is calling? Have you had them turned off by mistake? You talk to one person at the power company and all of them take up for each other.

Most of you, the public, know what I'm talking about. They are always right.

How about the water company? If the pipes break, and you try and settle the water bill, guess who wins? It's a shame we don't have another water company and utility company. I'd love to see all of them lose their jobs.

Granite City Wastewater Treatment Plant, according to Glantz.

The Eticam executive also outlined future plans for a second operation that would dispose of solid wastes, including sludge from the city's wastewater facility.

The technology necessary for the ambitious plans would be based on a German process yet to be tried in this country. The expertise would be provided by Emissions Technisches Institut (ETI), owned by Hans M. Arsovic of Baden-Baden, West Germany. Arsovic is the principal stockholder of Eticam, based in Providence, R.I.

Terrance McMillan, city wastewater plant superintendent, said the company and its process were unknown to him.

He added the firm would have to prove its claims in a required permit application before it would be allowed to discharge into the city's plant.

Glantz takes the position that his firm will not only meet environmental regulations, but will add the city plant by offering it industrial waste almost pure enough to drink. The executive also claims his plant will act as a magnet, attracting other industries in search of an economical means to disposal of wastewater.

The plant would mainly be geared towards accepting waste from high technology electronics, jewelry, aerospace and metal industries. The plant would eventually be able to accept 500 tons of wastewater a day.

Miller supports township government

Following are comments by George H. Miller, executive director of the Illinois Township Officials organization. He started discussing renovation of the Illinois Capitol and then turned to these thoughts.

There is another aspect to preservation and restoration. Perhaps because it doesn't include buildings and monuments it's often overlooked - that is the preservation of township government and the restoration of some of its powers.

For 140 years before the birth of the United States, the democracy flourished under the township form of government. Each community was permitted, even expected, to solve its own problems at the local level. The "people" were granted the power to decide what "they" wanted or needed in their township.

Then, as a community, they worked side by side to attain their goals. They made progress with neither handouts nor mandates from federal or state governments.

Few of us realize that America didn't start with big cities such as Chicago, Peoria, or Rockford. These cities are the result of the nation's strength and growth, not the reason for, as some big city officials would have us believe.

"They came to be only because of the inner determination of many people from 'small town' America who banded for mutual aid and benefit."

Some of these are the same ones who at the Mayors Conference in Denver said that the solution to curing the ills of America's cities is more federal dollars. They also have proposed from time to time that the country's 17,000 townships be eliminated from the revenue sharing program with the cities being allocated the additional funds. Some have even said that "We can do without township government."

The truth is that we in the rural areas need the big cities, for they are vital to our development. They, however, need the state's townships and their products and residents as well. Without the farms, factories, and labor force of the townships, big cities would be in even more dire straits than they are today.

There would be nothing to manufacture and no one to manufacture it for. The farmer can't get his products to market without farm-to-market roads constructed and maintained by township road commissioners. Without the township assessor it would be impossible to levy taxes with any degree of fairness, and without the township supervisor, clerk, and trustees, there would be almost no control over the administration of General Assistance to those in need.

Local government in general is entering a new era of importance. It becomes increasingly more important that new partnerships between the cities and townships be developed. Each unit of government can and should take its place in our democratic system, but not at the expense of the other. It can only be done if self-determination is preserved and the "power of the people" restored.

We are a nation of more than 230 million people with all the problems of a crowded busy world. We are a nation united, however, in a common cause, the freedom of all its people. That freedom will only be preserved if, once again, the people can govern themselves as they did 50 years ago.

Township government offered them, as it does today, that opportunity. It must be preserved.

Ours is a huge nation in a hurry. How easy it would be to forget why our 200 plus year journey began and where our system of democracy came from. We in township government, the purest form of democracy, must never let that happen.

As the lady on Main Street indicated, at times turning to the past is progress.

Resident has link with Abraham Lincoln

By GEORGEANN MCGEE

of the Press-Record

An auction billed as selling the only farm that President Abraham Lincoln ever owned has upset one Granite City resident.

Warren Jennings and his sister Ethel Jennings Speer of Junction, Ill., believe they also own a farm once owned by Lincoln. Their claim, however, appears to be a matter of legal interpretation.

Raymond Phipps, a spokesman and board member for the Lincoln Heritage Trail Foundation, said the Jennings farm, located near Shawneetown, Ill., is not a true Lincoln find. He said the farm was merely the subject of a legal lien imposed by Lincoln as an attorney.

After consulting an Illinois historian, Phipps said documentation was found indicating the lien was intended only to guarantee payment for a legal case Lincoln was fighting for the former farm owners.

Phipps also is the private owner of the farm that was scheduled to be sold at auction this afternoon.

The Lincoln Heritage Trail Foundation, a three-state organization partially supported by government funding, has been promoting the sale and the unique historical value of the farm through press releases.

Proceeds from the land sale will go to the foundation, after a mortgage for the land is satisfied, according to Phipps.

Phipps' 40-acre farm near Charleston, Ill., was bought by Abraham Lincoln in 1841. The Jennings 122-acre farm was bonded to Lincoln, attorney Samuel Marshall and Edward Jones in 1845.

According to Jennings,

Lincoln and his wife, Mary, appeared before a Sangamon County clerk to sign a quit claim deed in 1853 releasing their rights to the farm back to William Dorman. Jennings inherited the farm from his father, who purchased the land from Dorman.

Mrs. Speer said Lincoln's interest in the farm was based on more than a technicality, since he visited Shawneetown during the claimed Lincoln ownership.

She is in the process of trying to verify Lincoln's interest through documentation. The search is difficult due to the amount of records that have been lost to floods in the Shawneetown area.

When contacted Saturday, Phipps at first expressed skepticism that the "Abraham Lincoln" involved with the Jennings farm transaction was Pres. Lincoln. Phipps also said he was unaware of Lincoln's relationship to Samuel Marshall.

However, a quick check of Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln: The Prairie Years, 1809-1861" showed two indirect references to Lincoln's friendship with Marshall and that Marshall lived in Shawneetown. Phipps subsequently consulted a state historian, who found a reference to the Jennings farm in a book on Lincoln's finances.

Jennings and his sister said they are personally convinced the farm did belong to Lincoln, but they have no intentions of profiting from that fact. They would be interested, though, in establishing the farm's place in history.

The Glenstone farm auction merely served to remind them that not everyone agrees with their views, they added.

DROPS ROBBERY CHARGE AGAINST MAN

An armed robbery charge against Clyde Williams, 20, of Imperial, Mo., was dropped last week after a Granite City man he allegedly robbed was unable to pick Williams out of a line-up at the Madison County Jail.

Henry Kovalik, 68, told police he was robbed in March outside Fairmont Park Racetrack and tentatively identified Williams in a photo line-up, police said.

Williams then turned himself in and was arraigned by Madison County Circuit Judge Philip Rarick. Kovalik said an armed robber took $500 from his wallet, his watch and trousers after Kovalik gave the man a ride on the parking lot of Laura Buick in Collinsville several days after the robbery, according to Collinsville police.

Q. If a person has an additional source of income, other than his full-time job, should they be reported on a loan application?
A: Yes. When applying for a loan, you should report additional income besides your normal income, to help support your loan application. You should be aware you may be asked to support such information. If, for example, you indicate a monthly income from investments of $1,000, you may be asked for proof. Also, income from alimony may or may not be included, at your discretion, on certain types of loans. Every loan application is required to carry a statement indicating that alimony or child support income need not be revealed if the applicant does not wish to do so. If you feel your regular earned income will not be substantial in applying for a loan, it would probably be a good idea to indicate alimony or child support. Again, depending on the nature of the loan, the amount and the purpose to which the funds will be put, you may be required to submit proof of such payments.

'Rediscover Cahokia' festival this weekend

Quad-City area residents are being invited to "Come join the 'Rediscover Cahokia' annual festival Aug. 13 and 14 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

The weekend event is designed to give people a glimpse into life as it was a thousand years ago, when a large prehistoric city flourished near St. Louis. Cahokia Mounds Historic Site has recently been named to the United Nations World Heritage List, one of only 10 sites in the United States to be so honored.

Some of the special features at this famous site are: Monks Mound, the largest prehistoric structure in the United States; the "Woodhenge," similar to Stonehenge in England and used for astronomical predictions; a mound where more than 300 burials have been excavated, and one of the many "borrow pits" where the Indians removed dirt to create the mounds. More than 100 pounds were on the site during its heyday.

There are also two reconstructed houses similar to the dwellings the Indians lived in and a garden planted with foods that prehistoric residents cultivated. The museum, with its many displays and a slide show, will be open during the event.

"Hands-on" demonstrations are scheduled continuously throughout the weekend. They include flintknapping (arrowhead making), weaving, pottery making, food preparation and basketmaking. Films will be shown in the theater. There will be Indian dancing, storytelling and an "atlatl" (spearthrowing) contest.

Admission to the event is free. Visitors may take the free guided bus tours around the site and will be able to tour the summer archeological "dig," where excavations currently are being conducted along the stockade wall. This wall was built prehistorically to surround the "downtown" area. Those more hardy may climb to the top of the Monks Mound on the recently-constructed stairway.

There will be artifact displays and people available to help identify artifacts that visitors may bring.

Picnic tables, refreshments (soda, popcorn and roasted corn) and a gift shop will be available.

Reynolds paying 28 cents per pound for aluminum

Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company has increased the price it pays for recyclable aluminum in the St. Louis area for the second time this summer.

Beginning immediately, Reynolds will pay the general public 28 cents per pound for all aluminum soft drink and beer containers. That's a three cents per pound increase on what the firm was paying last month and the highest Reynolds has paid in the St. Louis area in the last two years.

"There's an increased demand for aluminum again," said R. J. Woosley, district recycling manager for Reynolds. "It's that simple. The market is beginning to turn around again and we need the metal. It's good news for us and for recyclers as well."

The program not only encourages environmental conservation by consumers but helps supply Reynolds' parent company, the Reynolds Metals Company, with a major source of metal for new aluminum products.

In addition to paying 28 cents per pound for all-aluminum beverage cans, Reynolds earlier doubled the price it pays in the St. Louis area for certain miscellaneous aluminum.

The firm now pays 28 cents per pound for other clean household aluminum products and miscellaneous items such as foil, pie plates, frozen food and dinner trays, siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, lawn furniture tubing, power lawn mower housings and barbecue grills. These items should be free of any non-aluminum materials, cut to lengths not exceeding three feet, bundled, and not mixed with cans.

Give Yourself A TAX SHELTERED RETIREMENT

Anyone can now set aside up to $2,000 annually in an Individual Retirement Account with all taxes deferred on the principal and interest until retirement day. It's a fast way to build up an estate and gives the little guy a long overdue tax break. A substantial rate of return is paid on the balance.

Paddlers' swimmers win third consecutive title

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

ALTON — Paddlers' swimming coach Celeste Sonnenberg laughed at the notion that there was a direct connection between her coaching career and the Paddlers' ability to win the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association (SWISA) championship.

Miss Sonnenberg took over as Paddlers' swimming coach in 1980. Paddlers won the SWISA title that year. Miss Sonnenberg and Paddlers have yet to let go of the title. Paddlers also won the championship in 1981, 1982 and now 1983.

The Granite City-based team defeated its nearest challenger, Gaslight of Collinsville, 474-362 to win the 22nd annual SWISA meet at Alton's Summers-Port pool.

Summers-Port was third with 316, and Montclair of Edwardsville was fourth with 312 points.

Although Miss Sonnenberg initially laughed at the connection, she quickly recalled her first year at Paddlers.

"The first year I came here and looked out at the pool, I saw 100 kids whose names I didn't know. I saw they had quite a bit of talent by their winning the championship. All they needed was someone to corral them into a good team," Miss Sonnenberg said.

"It was a matter of them taking their time to practice and work as a team to become better," she said.

So far, the formula for winning has worked well at both the individual and the team level.

Paddlers had three swimmers who tied or won the high point awards in their age brackets. John Amisch won the 13-14 boys high point award by himself. Patti Martin shared the 13-14 girls award, and Kelly Reed shared the 11-12 girls award.

"Those people doing so well really helped us out a lot," Miss Sonnenberg said. "All three of them did exceptional jobs."

Amisch won the 13-14 200 yd. intermediates in 2:12.57, shattering the old record by more than seven seconds. He won the 100 yd. breaststroke in 1:07.68 and took two seconds off that record, and he won the 50 yd. butterfly in 1:03.25 and took a second off that record.

Meanwhile, Martin won the 200 yd. intermediates in 2:33.95, the 100 yd. breaststroke in 1:08.58, and the 100 yd. butterfly in 1:03.25. Her performance in the butterfly was a new record.

Reed won the 100 yd. intermediates with 1:10.20, the 50 yd. breaststroke in 33.92 seconds, and the 50 yd. butterfly in 31.09 seconds.

The individual victories were important for Paddlers, but the team's depth is what really clinched the championship again. Paddlers had three firsts, 13 seconds, two thirds and two fifths in the relay events. That added up to 196 of Paddlers' 474 points.

Paddlers also had two swimmers in 30 of the individual finals. Having two people scoring points in the finals makes it easier to win the team championship, Miss Sonnenberg said.

"That's the trick. If you can get two people in the finals, that helps because it means more points. Ideally, you want to finish 1-2, but if you can finish 1-4 or 2-5, that's good too," Miss Sonnenberg said.

The combination of those two factors led to a major surprise — the margin of victory. "It was much closer than I expected," Miss Sonnenberg said. "I really expected it to be within 50 or 60 points. Our relays did really well, and those first and second places is what made the difference."

"It's not only the quantity but the quality of the swimmers we have that allows us to have good relays. There's a lot of competition all season long to make the team for the SWISA meet. We have a lot of team spirit, and everyone helps each other out," she said.

Can Paddlers make it five in a row next year?

"I don't know. It's getting closer every year," Miss Sonnenberg said.

Red Sox deny GC Chiefs double header sweep

By STEVE WHITWORTH

MARYVILLE — The Granite City Chiefs were just an easy pop fly away from sweeping a double-header between the Maryville Red Sox in Inter-City baseball.

But, that pop fly dropped unmolested with two out in the bottom of the seventh inning, allowing Maryville to score the tying run. And the Red Sox took advantage of the miscue when they scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth.

The gift single erased a spectacular comeback by the Chiefs, who trailed 6-1 in the second contest after winning the opener 12-6. The Chiefs had exploded for seven runs in the sixth inning of the nightcap to grab the lead at 8-4.

But, Maryville scrambled back in the bottom of the seventh. Left fielder Rick Wilke reached first on an error by Chief second baseman Rob Ficker to lead off the inning.

Catcher Dave Bell singled to second. Chief hurler Ken Crawford retired shortstop Tony Kosny on a fly to left, but third baseman Tom Settles of the Chiefs threw wildly to first on Red Sox first baseman John Russell's grounder, loading the bases.

Red Sox coach Ray Perry came off the bench to pinch-hit, and his sacrifice fly made the score 9-7. It was all up to center fielder Mike Manion with two out, and the game appeared to be over.

But, Ficker and first baseman Jim Small of the Chiefs each neglected to call for the ball. So, instead of Crawford walking off the mound with a victory, Bell hustled home to tie the score at 8-8.

Crawford retired his counterpart, Maryville pitcher Rod Scown, to end the frame, but it only delayed the inevitable. The misplay had sapped the will of the Chiefs, and they went down meekly in order in the top of the eighth.

Maryville ended the long afternoon in the bottom of that inning when designated hitter Randy Robbins led off with a single up the middle. One out later, he moved to second on left fielder Rick Wilke's bunt single. Bell followed with a single to lead the bases.

Crawford hit Kosny with a pitch, forcing in the winning run.

Maryville was blown out of the first game in the late innings. The Chiefs took the early lead when they scored two runs in the second inning on an RBI triple by Dennis Gurkin Jr., and an RBI single by left fielder Rich Takmajian.

The Chiefs boosted the score to 4-0 in the third when catcher Bruce Nation scored on a throwing error by Maryville's shortstop Kosny. Right fielder Keith Flaherty, who reached second on the error, scored on a single by designated hitter Crawford.

Maryville tied the score in the bottom of the third. One run was driven in by Hughes as a center-forward on that squad, while Stanley was a point guard and Cigarette was a reserve guard.

Graham expects some change of positions may be necessary, but he definitely plans to use recently acquired Stephenson as the Stars' center. At 6 feet 7 inches tall, it's a good bet Stephenson will be a shoe in for that position.

"I'm really high on Stephenson," Graham said. "He's really been a good center for us. He's quick and tricky, and he's at his best inside. He's a tremendous shooter for someone his size," Graham said.

Elaborating on Stephenson, Graham said the height inside which is necessary for a successful center.

It may have been tennis, but... ...it wasn't love

Thursday evening, the Granite City Park District's resident tennis tournament came to a close. In the end, there were six divisional adult champions. Last Tuesday morning the junior champions were decided.

Winners Thursday were the following:
In the men's singles competition, Dan Isom defeated Ed Schmalbach in three sets. Isom dropped the first set 5-7 to Schmalbach, but came back in the final two sets, winning 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.
In women's singles, another three-set match, Merry Tritanji defeated Theresa Gwasdac 6-2, 2-6, 6-3.

Isom was again a winner in men's doubles competition as he teamed with Mike Papes to defeat Tom Longus and John Menendez for the men's doubles title. Again, a three-set match, the Isom-Papes duo won 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

In father and son doubles competition, Chris and Dan Holland teamed to down Jerry and Chris Chenevert 6-2, 6-3.

In men's over 35 singles competition, Jim Squires defended his title by downing Al Lobdell in straight sets 6-4, 7-5. Squires was also a two-division champion as he teamed with Tritanji to defeat Bob Harshany and Theresa Gwasdac to win the mixed doubles competition. The Squires-Tritanji duo won 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

It was the fourth three-set championship match of the final round.

John Van Buskirk, tournament director, said he couldn't have been happier with the tournament's response.

"I think we saw a lot of good tennis out here this week. I had a good time and I think those who participated had a good time," Van Buskirk said.

"I'm looking forward to the invitational tennis tournament."

The invitational tennis tourney is the second summer net tournament that the Park District sponsors. The invitational begins this Friday, Aug. 12.

Van Buskirk estimates 60 Granite City residents participated in the tournaments.

Judging by the fierceness of the competition, it may have been tennis, but it wasn't love.

CHAMPIONSHIP ACTION. Tournament play Thursday evening during the Wilson Park Resident Tennis Tournament included (beginning clockwise from top right) a serve by Ed Schmalbach in the men's singles championship. Schmalbach dealt quite a serve, but Dan Isom wasn't bothered as he went on to win the men's singles title.

Jim Squires returns a shot during his match against Al Lobdell. Squires successfully defended his over 35 tennis title downing Lobdell 6-4, 7-5.

Theresa Gwasdac successfully returns a shot against Merry Tritanji in women's singles competition, but experience prevailed as Mrs. Tritanji downed Gwasdac for the women's championship.

Isom becomes airborne in an attempt to return a Schmalbach serve.

Chris Holland (foreground) readies himself for a serve as his father Ron, does the same. The Hollands won the Father and Son doubles competition with a victory over Jerry and Chris Chenevert in the finals.

Restaurant permit granted in Madison

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Council approval for a special use permit issued to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Helton of Granite City to operate a restaurant at 1001 Iowa St. in Madison last week brought an objection from a Madison resident who lives near the proposed business place.

The permit, endorsed by the city's Zoning Board of Appeals, was granted to operate a restaurant serving alcoholic beverages, but also listed certain stipulations.

Guidelines for the business include:

- Primary use of the building as a restaurant and the bar business should be complimentary to the restaurant.
- The majority of floor space is to be used for the restaurant.
- No live music.
- The business is to advertise as a restaurant and not as a bar or tavern.
- The special use permit is granted only for Harry Helton as owner and operator of the business, a subsequent transfer of property to other parties is immediate termination of the special use permit.
- A fully operable restaurant kitchen shall be maintained on the premises.

HIRING BOOSTS COLLEGE PLACEMENT

With the report of an additional 130 placements, the total for the current placement year at Northwest Missouri State University is running well ahead of comparable total in 1982, reports Marvin Sillman, university director of placement and career planning.

The most recent report, the sixth for the placement year, which began in March, the current total shows 362 people who have used the services of the placement office and who have reported back to that office their future plans.

Included in the 130 most recent reports are 74 persons graduating in the 1983-84 academic year and some who will complete degree requirements at the end of the current summer session.

Although no report was issued on an exact comparable date in 1982, it is apparent the current 562 placements is at least 60 more than a year ago.

Officials in the Office of Placement and Career Planning say that demand is still good in many areas and in particular from school systems looking to complete teaching staffs with the new school year a little more than a month away.

Among those on the most recent placement report as of July 20 is Merlin Robinson of Granite City, hired as a physical education teacher for School District 9 in Granite City.

for the duration of the permit.

The requirement for parking spaces for non-conforming use in a residential area shall be waived because of the parking agreement with G & G Carwash.

And no more than three video games be installed at the facility.

The woman, who said she was speaking on behalf of other neighbors, voiced a complaint that loud music or other disturbances in a residential area is not fair to the homeowners who are working people and cannot endure the late night noise.

Mayor Mike Saayk explained this restaurant must be given the same options to operate as any other restaurant in town and cannot be singled out with restrictions other businesses do not have to honor.

"I know there have been problems with previous owners, but I do not think this is the case with these people, and we can always use another family-style restaurant. If you encounter any problems with the new operation, just let the chief of police and the council know about it and we will proceed to take care of the situation," the mayor assured the complaining neighbor.

Alderman Thomas Gordon submitted a schedule of taxes levied for 1983, which shows an estimated tax levy percentage increase in the amount of 4.7 percent.

The 1982 tax levy, passed Aug. 31, lists liability insurance for $20,000; police pension, $25,000; library, $16,000; playground and recreation, $10,800, and IMRF, $75,000.

This year the list is the same with the exception of the IMRF which amounts to $82,000 for a total of $155,800 as compared to $148,800 for the previous year.

John Dutko, building inspector, reported that 17 permits were issued for the previous two weeks and that the scheduled hearing last week in conjunction with property at 800 and 802 Grand Ave., was postponed by the judge to Aug. 26 to give the defendants time to prepare for the case on condemnation of the property.

"Next meeting I will have the proper condemnation papers for real estate located at 1305 Madison Ave. and 510-512 State St., to present to the council," Dutko added.

YOUNG 'CYCLISTS HURT IN VENICE

Two boys riding a bicycle sustained injuries during the past week when their machine struck a parked car outside the home of Gerald R. Giles, 1012 Calhoun St., Venice.

Garland Giles, 14, of West Second Street, Madison, was riding on Calhoun Street when he had to swerve to avoid hitting someone alighting from a taxi and struck the car instead, he told police.

Garland and his passenger, Demetrius Williams, 18, of 1018 Venice, were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment, reports said.

Fewer road deaths here

Enforcement efforts by the Illinois State Police directed at specific violations occurring on selected high-accident highways have contributed to a continued reduction of traffic fatalities in Illinois, Capt. Bobby L. Henry Sr. said this week.

During the first seven months of 1983, a total of 835 persons lost their lives in traffic crashes on Illinois highways, down 45 from the same period last year.

In the five-county area of District 11, there were 52 fatalities through July 31 of this year, a decrease of 11 from the same period in 1982.

Capt. Henry commented, "The Policing For Results program (PFR) initiated in July 1981 has made it possible for us to identify specific roads with high accident rates and to direct our enforcement efforts to those areas in an effort to further reduce the number of traffic deaths.

"We ask the motoring public for continued voluntary compliance with all traffic laws in order to further reduce the needless suffering and loss of lives that occur daily on our highways."

JEWELRY JOTTINGS

Crusader returns from the Holy Lands in the Middle Ages brought back lovely green stones they thought were emeralds. Today we know these stones were peridot, found on St. John's Island in the Red Sea, and beautiful in their own right. The period, one of August's birthstones, is especially recommended for pins or pendants. Can we show you examples?

RESEARCH ON LONG-TERM CARE OF AGED

Graduate students in gerontology will discuss the results of their research at the Gerontology Research Colloquium Series at 6 p.m. tomorrow at SIUE, Room 2407 of Building II.

The students will discuss issues dealing with long-term care for the elderly, including ways to make nursing homes better places to live, and alternates for nursing homes.

'Mucking about' might never be the same for Pamela Rutledge

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

For Pamela Rutledge, home seems an unfamiliar place, the language is different, the food is not the same, the climate is strange and people drive on the wrong side of the street.

When she left Narrandera, where she lived in New South Wales, Australia, it was winter. When she arrived at Lambert International Airport recently she walked into a typical St. Louis area summer, complete with humidity and 90-degree-plus temperatures.

Adjusting could take some time, but Miss Rutledge doesn't expect too many problems re-Americanizing herself after spending 10 and one-half months in Australia as a member of the Rotary Youth Exchange program.

At her home on Fortune Drive, she was greeted by a huge banner that said, "Welcome Home, Pamela," strung between two trees that were decorated with yellow ribbons in the branches.

For the daughter of the Rev. Dennis Rutledge, pastor at Central Christian Church, and Joyce Rutledge, life is going to be interesting as she readjusts to a life of living she had left behind nearly a year ago.

While things might seem different to her, Miss Rutledge's family and friends are apt to notice that she's changed a bit too.

Most notably, she has a discernable — accent. When she speaks, some words are clipped off. At the ends of some phrases and sentences, her voice goes up a pitch like a question, and hangs in the air, waiting for a finish. While those talking with her might wait for Miss Rutledge to complete her thought, she smiles, indicating that she's through.

The 18-year-old's vocabulary also has some additions like "muck about" (meaning fool around) and "blokes." Although she notices the new phrases she's picked up, the accent escapes her. "I still don't hear any difference," she says.

She also talks a bit more quickly than most people in this area probably are used to — another Australian language trait. "It took me a couple of months to pick up what they were saying," she says of the fast-talking Australians.

And, those who get in a car with her might notice her tendency to drive on what Americans call the wrong side of the road. "You know, over there they drive on the other side of the road. I was driving (after returning home) and I saw a stop sign on the right side and I said, 'What's that doing there?' Then I realized I was on the wrong side," she says and laughs.

While she brought home a new accent and a style of driving that might puzzle passengers, Miss Rutledge has warm memories of Australia. "I loved it," she says.

During the time she was in New South Wales, Miss Rutledge lived with three families — the Hayllars, the Bakers and the Choyes. Of the three, she says the Bakers made her feel most at home. "It seemed like I was born into their family," she says. The Bakers — Fred, and Wendy — have two children, Vicky, 20, and Paul, 18, and they were like a sister and brother to her, she says.

"It was spooky. I was watching slides with them from when they were young and I kept waiting for my pictures to come up," she says.

Miss Rutledge spent about three months with each family and went back to visit the Bakers for two weeks before returning to Granite City.

Most young women her age probably would feel a tinge of anticipation at leaving home for nearly a year, but Miss Rutledge says she kept busy and, that way, avoided many bouts of homesickness.

Any time she started to feel lonely for home, which happened occasionally at night when she wasn't doing anything, she wrote a letter until she became tired.

"At Christmas I thought I'd really get homesick," she says. But it turned out to be such an unusual experience

HOME AGAIN. Pamela Rutledge stands in the front yard of her home on Fortune Drive which was decorated to welcome her back from New South Wales, Australia. (Press-Record Photo by Nancy Weil)

There were no stockings hung on the chimney with care. Instead, Aussies hang "big pillowcases" at the foot of their beds, she says. And, many families put trees up on Christmas Eve after the children have gone to sleep, so they'll think Santa Claus brought the greenery. Christmas dinner was different too for Miss Rutledge as a cold dinner was served instead of the typical American meal of roast turkey or ham and hot food.

But adjusting to a different style of celebrating holidays was the least of her problems. Miss Rutledge found the Australian educational system to be totally different than her school experiences here.

First of all, she had to wear a uniform at the Narrandera public high school. That probably wasn't too bad, but then she found that Australian high school students spend a lot of time "mucking about," with recesses, after every other class period.

"Most of the (high school) kids act the same as junior high school and grade school students. They mess around during recess, playing football and tackling each other. Here, the kids are more sophisticated," she says.

The hardest part of adjusting to the recess periods was that Miss Rutledge would just settle into studying during a class and, suddenly, it was time for break. "Then we'd muck around," she says.

When they aren't mucking about, high school students in Australia spend a tremendous amount of time studying. Following their 12th year of school — comparable to senior year here — Australian students are tested on everything they've studied.

Tests are taken during the school year, primarily in the form of essays, except in math classes. Miss Rutledge found that most of the students had little time to socialize, so she often went out with "kids out of school already," she says.

"It also was difficult for Miss Rutledge to accept the idea that she was somewhat of a local celebrity. Living in a town of only 5,000 people, she found that the residents all knew who she was. At first they believed she was shy and quiet because she spent some time just checking out her new environment, not becoming very involved in anything.

Once she got a grasp of her surroundings, though, she started to go out and do things. "Everytime I did something, everybody knew about it," she says and sighs. "If I had been in a bigger city, they wouldn't really have noticed me."

When she did go out, Miss Rutledge found the "duncans," or pubs, to be to her liking. In fact, she says, that was her favorite part of Australia. Rather than wild, bawling taverns, the duncans are "an Australian way of life," Miss Rutledge says.

Most men head straight for the pubs after work and most people eventually end up at the duncans, which "is where everybody went," she says.

During the time she was there, the duncans might have been more crowded than usual with people searching for relief from the heat, because the country was experiencing its longest and worst drought ever. When she arrived, the country was very dry and very brown.

"The drought broke last month," she says. Virtually overnight, the country was "beautiful. It went from nothing to green in just a couple of days," she says.

While the countryside in New South Wales is mainly flat, she says there were some hills about. The closest large towns were Griffith and Wagga Wagga, with Sydney about 250 miles away.

The names of the cities are mostly aborigine in origin with Narrandera meaning "Place of Lizards." There were, she agrees, a lot of lizards there.

Most Aborigine people — native Australians — live in Queensland, other residents are "half casts," or not full Aborigine, she says.

Also well known in Australia are the animals, that roam the country like kangaroos, koala bears and wombats. Once, Miss Rutledge went kangaroo hunting, but she says she couldn't shoot any because, "I was so shocked to see them running around. One of the blokes I was with shot one though."

Sheep also wander the countryside and Narrandera is known for its sheep raising and wheat. For a few days, Miss Rutledge worked in a shearing shed, learning to break down the strands, pick up the fleeces and categorize it according to quality and weight of the strands, she says.

When she wasn't tracking wildlife, attending classes or mucking about at the duncans, Miss Rutledge spent some time enjoying the Australian sunshine. Very little time, however, because the sun is extremely hot there. "It's very dry in the summer. I would go outside and get burned before I could get lotion on," she says.

A pretty blonde with a fair complexion, Miss Rutledge probably burns easily no matter where she is. The winter wasn't exactly to her liking either — it was very, very cold. Most homes have no central heating and the residents rely on oil heaters placed in the family rooms of their houses instead.

"When we'd get up, it would be almost as cold in the house as it was outside," she says.

The weather wasn't the only big surprise. Miss Rutledge found that Australians, even in small towns, are extremely fashion conscious and buy a lot of clothing — something most young women can appreciate.

She also was a bit surprised by the amount of coverage American news receives in the Australian media. "There seemed to be something about America on all the time," she says.

Further, Australians tend to compare things with the United States, which she found to be interesting. Still, they don't at all forget their English ties.

When Prince Charles and Princess Diana visited Australia, the entire country was in a state of uproar and excitement pervaded the towns during the royal tour.

While Australia is a separate, autonomous country, the queen's picture is on all the money and Miss Rutledge says the native Aussies toast the queen often at their meals.

"I would toast the president. They would say to the queen, 'and I would say, to the president,'" she says raising her arm in a mock toast.

Although she may have returned with more than a bit of Aussie in her system, there obviously were some things Miss Rutledge just didn't let go of during her stay there.

However, it might be a good idea for her family and friends to drive for a few weeks until she gets used to which side of the road is which. And "mucking about" with the "blokes" is liable to be a bit different without access to the duncans.

"But I was told to accept coming back the same as going over. I didn't know what to expect. Being back home will be like starting the whole exchange program over again," she says.

Trapper tells of need for controlling animals

"Trappers are individuals by nature and don't seek the publicity they need (to counter their opponents), thus, they are running the chance of extinction themselves," Harry Deathridge, a local fur trapper, told the Granite City Optimist Club at its meeting Thursday afternoon in the YMCA.

Deathridge contended that trapping is an essential form of wildlife control. "The people with anti-trapping sentiments are so far removed from the land they don't understand that we have to control these animals or they will overpopulate and starve to death," he explained.

Deathridge displayed a wide range of furs, including beavers, foxes, raccoons, red and gray foxes and beavers, most of which he caught and some of which he trapped local furs for.

He said there are wide misconceptions about the tools of the trapper and the pain they inflict on the animals. He said "the Bambi-syndrome, bunny hugger people" try to make the public believe that the animals are caught in traps with teeth and bone-crushing springs and suffer for hours or days before the trapper comes by to put them out of their misery.

Actually, Deathridge said, most traps have no teeth (teeth are illegal on traps) and, snapping a trap closed on his hand, he demonstrated that the traps do not close hard enough to inflict injury, only to hold the animal alive.

He showed slides of a red fox which had a foot caught in a trap and said the fox was curled up asleep next to the trap when Deathridge came the next morning.

Foxes are knocked unconscious by a rap on the nose and then are killed while unconscious, he said.

Most beavers drown when they wrap the chains from the traps around underwater stakes. Some animals are shot as the most humane way of killing them, he noted.

Asked about the danger of traps to children and adults, Deathridge said there are safeguards. First, most trapping is done in the cold of winter, when there are few people walking in the fields. Second, all trapping is to be done with the landowners' permission, so he is unlikely to give anyone else permission to use the property if it is trapped. Third, small game traps could not hurt anyone severely, he contended.

He said the danger comes more from having untrapped wild animals around than from the traps.

He said Quad-Cityans would be surprised at the types of animals trapped in or just outside of the city. He showed the fur of a 32-pound raccoon which was trapped in a yard on East 3rd Street across from Luria Brothers. Foxes were caught near the Chain of Rocks levee and in the Mitchell area. Horseshoe Lake is a haven for muskrats, and many large and high-quality muskrat skins are taken from the lake each year by the limited number of licensed trappers.

Minks used to be found around area streams, but sewage treatment plant ponds appeared, and the minks no longer abound, Deathridge stated, saying he cannot prove that is the reason, but he believes all happened at the same time.

Deathridge said fur prices are depressed at the current time. Muskrat skins bring only $1.25 to $4.50 each, raccoon skins sell for $16 to $17, fox hides range from $22.50 to $33.50 each, and large beaver furs sell for $16 each.

TRAPPER, Harry Deathridge of Granite City, displays some of the pelts of animals he has captured, some inside the city limits of Granite City. The 32-pound raccoon was captured around the garbage cans of a house on East 23rd Street. (Press-Record Photo by Gary Schneider)

State seeks right to buy I-255 site

By TORI WHITEHEAD
The Illinois Department of Transportation has filed a motion asking a U.S. district judge in Alton to dismiss the lawsuit filed against it by opponents of the 5.8-mile extension to Interstate 255.

Opponents, including Save American Bottoms Essential Resources, filed suit in May in an attempt to stop land acquisition for the $90 million project.

Opponents, represented by attorney Harry Sterling, claimed that by law, they have property rights entitling them to due process under the 14th Amendment. They contend they have been deprived of due process in the form of a hearing on the necessity of IDOT action to acquire 500 acres of prime farmland for the I-255 extension.

IDOT contends that federal statutes create no property rights in farmland, so no improper deprivation of those rights has taken place.

Opponents had also claimed that IDOT violated the federal Farmland Protection Act, which seeks to minimize unnecessary and irreversible conversion of farmland for non-agricultural purposes.

In its response, IDOT cites a provision in the FPA which states that none of the other provisions in the act apply to land acquisition for national defense purposes.

The request for dismissal states that because I-255 is a part of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways, the FPA does not apply and does not provide rights for landowners under the 14th Amendment.

Further, IDOT says FPA was passed after the I-255 extension plans were approved.

The Agricultural Areas Conservation and Protection Act, cited by opponents, imposes no duties on state agencies, according to IDOT.

That act was passed in Illinois, in part, to counter the loss of agricultural land due to scattered development around urban areas.

S.A.B.E.R.'s suit also alleges that IDOT did not comply with provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act and that the environmental impact statement filed for the project was incorrect or incomplete.

IDOT alleges that because it is a state agency, the National Environmental Policy Act does not apply.

The response also asks that discoveries requested by Sterling be stayed until the court decides whether to dismiss.

Sterling said he has 20 days to respond to the motion to dismiss. He said the court will then set a hearing in which it can either dismiss or set another hearing on the necessity for land acquisition for I-255.

"They are claiming that the people have to find some right to a hearing in a statute, that mere ownership is not enough, which is contrary to the Constitution as I see it," Sterling said.

"Are they alleging that ownership of property is a privilege like owning a driver's license?"

Although he expected IDOT to ask the court to dismiss the suit, Sterling said he was "frankly, taken aback" by the state agency's arguments, which he thinks evade the real issues.

Thompson chairs National Governors Association

Governor James R. Thompson became the new Chairman of the National Governors' Association last week, assuming his year-long chairmanship during the annual meeting of the NGA in Portland, Maine.

"I am honored to be selected by the governors of this nation to head the National Governors' Association. We must work together as the nation comes out of its economic recession to ensure that the people in our states are able to respond to the changes that are fast overtaking our society. Changes that affect whether we have jobs, or what kind of jobs we have, what kind of skills we bring to those jobs. Changes that play a major role in the way we live."

Thompson, who was reelected to the full membership by the Executive Committee of the NGA last February during its winter meeting, called for a commitment by his colleagues to a national employment policy in the meeting's closing remarks.

"Jobs for the men and women of our nation must become a top priority as we continue to move through this period of economic recovery from recession," Thompson said. "I believe that we ought to make a national employment policy as important as our national defense policy and on the same level of priority as the maintenance of a sound currency and support of a healthy economy."

"During the recession, many hardworking men and women lost jobs due to the deep and lasting impact of economic forces on our country. The sacrifice made by families throughout the United States must be recognized and responded to by all national leaders, from coast to coast."

Thompson outlined a working plan for a national employment policy that focuses on four components: economic development, education, reinvestment in the nation's aging infrastructure and a coordinating mechanism to oversee development of the policy.

"Developing a solid economic base that provides jobs to the skilled and highly educated men and women of our state, not only of our state, but also as a nation."

Thompson, a three-term Governor of Illinois since January 1977, succeeded Governor Scott Matheson of Utah as chairman. He has served as vice chairman of the NGA for the past year.

Thompson also has served as a member of the Executive Committee. In the past, he has been chairman of the NGA's Transportation Committee and vice chairman of the Criminal Justice Committee. He also has served as chairman of the Midwest Governors' Association and as chairman of the Republican Governors Association.

Man scalded at SUE dies

Bill Richardson, 44, of Benld, died on Thursday, Aug. 4, at 7 a.m. at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in St. Louis.

Richardson was an employee of France Mechanical Corp. of Edwardsville, which has a contract to repair water lines and manhole facilities at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

On July 26, Richardson and another France employee, Jack Littlejohn of Wood River, were working at a manhole near the service road between the new Multipurpose Building and the parking lot west of Classroom Building III. Richardson was injured when a hot water line in the manhole where he was working apparently ruptured.

The university is continuing its investigation into the accident.

CAST IRON ART WORKS ON DISPLAY

The final week of a workshop in "Cast Iron as an Art Medium," will be open to the public on a non-credit basis from today through Friday, Aug. 12, according to Tom Clipse, associate professor of sculpture near the department of art and design at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Clipse organized the sessions, along with his graduate assistant, Ned Giverson.

Visiting artists are offering their insights and expertise to the workshop. They include Wayne Potratz, head of the sculpture department at the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, and Jim Schwartz, who holds a similar position at Southwestern State University, Marshall, Minnesota. Paul Nichols, resident fellow in sculpture at West Surrey College of Art and Design, Farnham, has come from England to participate.

Alleges driver DUI, hits car

Cecelia D. Bochantin, 55, of 216 Greenwood St., Madison, was injured at 5:40 p.m. Saturday when her auto, headed across Washington Avenue from August Street, was struck by a vehicle traveling north, whose driver allegedly backed up the car and left the scene.

Witnesses obtained a license number and Patrick J. Osuchowski, 27, of 3327 Johnson Road, was arrested at home a short time later. Osuchowski allegedly declined to take a breathalyzer test and was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, leaving the scene of an accident with an injury, disobeying a stop sign, failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident and driving while his license was suspended.

He was released from custody at 10:10 p.m. Saturday after posting a $302 cash bond.

Dixon pledges to rectify CD changes

Senator Alan J. Dixon said today he will take whatever steps necessary to rectify a situation that has placed in jeopardy the participation of Madison and St. Clair Counties in the federal government's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program.

Dixon staff members met today with representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and representatives of the St. Clair and Madison County governments to discuss the problem, which revolves around recent regulatory changes.

Under the changes, drafted by the Office of Management and Budget and implemented by HUD, the cities of Alton, Belleville and Granite City would be designated as "central cities," and their population subtracted from the total population of St. Clair and Madison counties.

That, in turn, would cause the population of the counties to drop below the level required for participation in the CDBG program.

"If the situation isn't changed," Dixon said, "all the cities and townships in Madison and St. Clair, except for the three central cities, stand to lose important federal dollars."

In 1983, for example, Madison County received $3.4 million in CDBG money, St. Clair $3.1 million.

Dixon is a member of the Senate Committee on Banking Housing and Urban Affairs, which has jurisdiction over HUD programs.

As a member of that committee, he said he is "prepared to take whatever action is necessary, whether legislative or administrative, to restore Madison and St. Clair to the CDBG program."

"I will work with Senator Percy and Congressman Price and Simon to find an appropriate solution," Dixon said.

May expand soccer complex at Prather

A larger soccer complex than originally visualized is being proposed at the Prather and Logan school grounds.

The Granite City School Board has authorized administrators and attorneys to prepare a new agreement with the Quad-Cities Soccer Association, for consideration at the Aug. 15 board meeting.

The association wants to expand the amount of school property it has been using west of the Prather and Logan buildings. The group operates leagues for children's teams and was authorized last year to develop part of the campus area.

Supt. B.J. Davis told the board last week, "They request that the property be extended to the present Venice Township land, which runs along and parallel to Illinois Route Three from the Prather building back to North Street."

"They would like to have permission to use this for an extended period of time up to ten years. They recognize we will need the ground as a playground during school hours and for any other school activities."

"Their program would not seem to interfere with any of these school activities."

"They would fence the entire area, which would be beneficial to the school district. This would give us the fence and the area for playground purposes and would keep unwanted motor traffic off the grounds."

"They also would like permission to install a parking lot at the back corner of Route Three North Street. This would be rock and bordered and would have to meet the approval of the school district."

YOUTH ATTACKED NEAR K-MART STORE

Officers went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 11:40 p.m. Saturday to talk with Richard E. Howland, 16, of Ponton Beach, who had suffered extensive injuries to his mouth when beaten by other youths. An investigation is continuing.

The attack took place near the K-Mart Store, 3600 Nameoki Road, the youth told police. He said several persons had struck him, using a crowbar or a metal pipe.

Reports said Howland sustained a puncture wound on the left side of the mouth, part of the lower lip appeared to be missing and

Workshop for children of alcoholics next week

By DEBORAH WILLIAMS
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

In an effort to gain further insight into the problems facing children of alcoholics, Ginny Dellamano, family care coordinator for Talbot Hall, attended a four-day support group training workshop recently in Minneapolis, Minn.

The workshop, conducted by Children Are People, Inc., provided specialized training for professionals working with children of alcoholics.

"It was an experiential workshop that showed new ways of getting ideas across through learning experiences and games rather than lectures," said Mrs. Dellamano.

"This type of educational process allows children to keep their own defensive behaviors they need to survive in a dysfunctional family situation and provides growth in such areas as self esteem and the sharing of feelings. These children also learn they have choices and can then develop new ways of behavior."

These new approaches will be incorporated into the next four-day Children's Program which will be Aug. 15 through 18 at Talbot Hall for adolescents between the ages of 8 and 14.

"When an alcoholic parent receives treatment, it is very important that their children also receive counseling to help them adjust to their new environment," said Mrs. Dellamano.

"Since most children from alcoholic homes are involved in unpredictable, unhealthy relationships, they are not used to being able to talk things out and have someone listen to their feelings or needs."

"It takes a great deal of intensive work to get these children to begin to open up and trust anyone—especially adults."

Anyone having children who are interested in attending this program may contact Ginny Dellamano at 798-3069 to make reservations.

LICENSES REVOKED
The drivers' licenses of two Quad-City area men have been revoked for convictions of driving under the influence of alcohol, according to Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar. Licenses revoked were those of Jerry W. Drennon, 23, of 1012 Grand Ave., Madison, and Bryan K. Towery, 20, of 2929 Pershing Blvd.

A Fonda family film in future?

By ALAN L. GANSBERG
HOLLYWOOD: PETER FONDA has made almost 30 movies in his varied career, but there is one actress he has yet to work with, but with whom he has every intention of working — his sister, JANE FONDA.

"We want to do a film together," he said, "Jane is really interested and we're trying to come up with the right idea."

"It would have to be a comedy and we'd have to play brother and sister. I don't think anyone would believe that there wasn't anything sexual between the two characters if they weren't related."

Although Peter spends most of his time in Montana with his wife and two sons — daughter BRIDGET is studying acting in New York — he keeps in close touch with his sister.

"I don't call her when she's making a picture, but other than that we're very close," he reported.

He's chosen to live in Montana so his family can be away from Hollywood and in an open environment. Awhile ago he tried living with them on a houseboat, but there just wasn't enough room. Their spread in Montana is a working ranch, but Peter rides herd on the boys to make sure they keep their minds on their studies.

He does travel to Los Angeles often, especially since he has signed a production deal with a company here that will see him not only starring in projects for television, but also producing TV movies for himself and movies and series as vehicles in which he will not appear.

Plus, Peter is one of the more popular American performers in Japan, as he is the spokesperson for Honda there, and the star of several successful Japanese films.

"I'm an actor and I go where the work is," he said. "I like the challenge. Many of my films have been in other countries, and they never get released here."

SYLVESTER STALLONE has really left his mark on Hollywood this time. He's the latest actor to put his footprints in the court outside Mann's Chinese Theater on Hollywood Boulevard. The event coincided with the opening of "Staying Alive," the sequel to "Saturday Night Fever," which he directed. He also has a brief cameo in the film.
